Landscape architect sought for Seattle Urban Forestry Commission

SEATTLE – Mayor Mike McGinn is looking for a new Urban Forestry Commission (UFC) member to fill Position # 6 (landscape architect). A landscape architect with certification from the International Society of Arboriculture is preferred. The term would start April 6 and extend through December 1, 2011.

This position is appointed by the mayor and confirmed by the City Council for a renewable, three-year term. The nine-member UFC consists of a wildlife biologist; an urban ecologist; a representative of a local, state, or federal natural resource agency or an accredited university; a hydrologist; a certified arborist; a representative of a non-profit or non-governmental organization; a representative of the development community or a representative from a non-city utility; and an economist, financial analyst, or Washington State license real estate broker.

The City of Seattle set the bold goal of achieving 30% tree canopy cover by 2037 to increase the environmental, social, and economic benefits trees bring to Seattle residents. The Seattle Urban Forest Management Plan (UFMP), adopted in 2007, is a comprehensive strategy for increasing Seattle's tree canopy cover to meet the 30% target. The UFMP lays out goals and a broad range of actions to be implemented over time to preserve, maintain, and plant trees as well as restore the public forested areas remaining in the city. More information about Seattle's urban forest program can be found at <http://www.seattle.gov/trees/management.htm>

The Urban Forestry Commission was established in 2009 by Ordinance 123052 to advise the Mayor and City Council concerning the establishment of policy and regulations governing the protection, management, and conservation of trees and vegetation in the City of Seattle. Commission meetings are held twice a month on Wednesdays from 3:00 p.m. to 5:00 p.m. Commission members generally must commit approximately 10 hours per month to Commission business and serve without compensation. Additional information about the Urban Forestry Commission can be found at <http://www.seattle.gov/trees/UFcommission.htm>

This position is open until filled.

In keeping with the City's "Paper Cuts" program, electronic submissions are preferred.
